INDIANA

INTRODUCTION

1358793

The 1919 issue of the Indianapolis City Directory is presented to its patrons after a careful enumeration of the citizens of the city and their various activities, and a compilation of the result by trained employees. The Directory will be found as accurate and trustworthy as it is possible to make such a work. The publishers have an enviable record of achievement in publishing previous issues, which is perpetuated in the present volume.

The Directory contains a fund of information concerning State, County and City Executives, Banks, Asylums, Hospitals and Homes, Building and Loan Associations, Cemeteries, Charity Organizations, Churches, Clubs, Courts, Federal Officers, Foreign Consular Corps, Insurance Companies, Labor Organizations, Libraries, Medical and Dental Colleges, Miscellaneous Organizations, Musical Societies, Post Office Data, Public Buildings and Halls, Parks, Public Schools, Railways, Secret Societies, etc.

As in previous editions the enumeration of names of citizens and their business connections was not confined to the boundary lines of the city proper, but included the immediate suburban territory, the inhabitants of which are practically one with Indianapolis in business interest, employment or association. Their inclusion in the enumeration serves to make the work a Directory of Greater Indianapolis.

In the present volume all of the local features which have proven so satisfactory to our patrons in the past have been retained and improvements added as suggested by experience.

POPULATION OF GREATER INDIANAPOLIS

In this Directory there are listed 123,422 individual names; a conservative estimate of the population is formed by multiplying the number of names by 2½, to allow for the names of married women and children which have not been included. This gives Greater Indianapolis a population of 308,555.

A complete library embracing directories of all the principal cities is maintained in our offices, 320-324, 8 E. Market St., for the convenience and free use of our patrons. For the benefit of our advertisers and as a means of advertising the City and its business interests, copies of this edition of the Indianapolis City Directory will be placed on file in the Directory Libraries in all of the larger cities throughout the country.

INDIANAPOLIS

Distinctions Which Give the City Supremacy as a Modern Progressive American Community, Furnished and Compiled by the

Indianapolis Chamber of Commerce

Indianapolis is sixty miles from the center of population of the United States.

It is in the geographical center of manufacturing of the United States.

It is in population, transportation facilities and volume of business transacted, the largest inland city, not on a navigable stream, in the United States.

It has a population of 308,555, 82% of which are native born (white); and 3,000,000 people live within 100 miles of the city.

It is the capitol of Indiana and in the geographical center of the state, with railroad or electric railway connections with every county in the state.

It has an area of 42 square miles.

It has 16 steam railroads connecting all the cities in the central west. Freight shipments can be made thru the Springfield and Peoria gateways, thus avoiding the St. Louis or Chicago congested districts. Direct connections are also made with New York, Boston, Washington, Philadelphia, and all other eastern cities.

The 13 electric interurban lines radiating from Indianapolis comprise one of the most extensive systems in the United States. The terminal building, train sheds, tracks, and freight houses are valued at $1,316,151. From this station approximately 20,602 passengers arrive and depart daily. The total number of passengers arriving and departing during the year 1918 was 7,519,634. Passenger cars made 128,145 round trips and freight cars 15,929 round trips.

More cities of 30,000 population and over can be reached in a night's ride from Indianapolis than from any other city in the United States, embracing a zone including Chicago, Milwaukee, Detroit, Toledo, Cleveland, Buffalo, Pittsburgh, Columbus, Cincinnati, Louisville, Chattanooga, Knoxville, Memphis, St. Louis, Peoria, Springfield, etc.

Every one of the 16 railroads entering Indianapolis is served by a belt railroad, 14 miles in length, which surrounds the city and gives every industrial plant ready access to each radiating line. The industrial sites along the "Belt" are, therefore, very desirable.

The various railroad freight terminals in Indianapolis lie so near together that they might almost be regarded as joint terminals. The two principal freight houses are less than a block apart; and the two most remote are separated by only 10 blocks. All freight stations are within easy reach of the wholesale district.

Indianapolis has three direct steam roads to the coal fields of Indiana.

It has two steam roads direct to the stone quarries of southern Indiana.

Indianapolis is pre-eminently an industrial city because of its geographical location in relation to the general market, because of its exceptional shipping facilities, abundance of labor, the excellence of its labor conditions, and the nearness of the fuel supply.

It had 317 miles of permanently improved streets, January 1, 1919.

Indianapolis has 140 miles of city electric car lines operating over double tracks, with five-cent fare and universal transfers.

It has 420 miles of sewers.

Indianapolis has five public auditoriums with combined seating capacity of 12,000, which are available for state and national conventions. Tomlinson Hall, the gift of Mr. Daniel Tomlinson, alone will seat 3,500 people. It is owned and maintained by the city.

According to the U. S. census of 1910, Indianapolis has 53,359 homes and 58,645 families. It has the reputation of a home-owning city.

According to the latest government report, published for Indianapolis in 1914, the average number of wage earners in manufacturing establishments was 30,971. Salaries and wages paid, $27,236,332.00. Value of products manufactured, $188,3068.00.

It has approximately 1,000 manufacturing and 2,300 retail concerns. It has 186 branches of outside concerns. In addition there are 200 wholesale and jobbing houses, representing all lines, with a market extending well over the Central West.

Indianapolis has several very large industrial buildings for small manufacturing concerns, which supply space, power and other facilities at reasonable cost.

The city enjoys an exceptionally low rate for electric power. The rate ranges, in general, from three cents per k. w. energy charge for the first 250 k. w.'s to one cent per k.w., with a demand charge of $3.00 or less per k.w. per month.

It has artificial gas at 60 cents a thousand feet. This is said to be the lowest price for artificial gas of any city in the United States.

It has 426 miles of water mains, and 26,500,000 gallons of water is used each day. The water supply is abundant and pure. No other city surpasses Indianapolis in the excellence of its water. The value of the pumping station is $12,500,000.00.

A larger stock of iron and steel is carried in Indianapolis than is carried in any city in the Central West outside of Chicago.

In 1918, 6,728,750 bushels of wheat and 21,566,500 bushels of corn were handled by local dealers. Total grain handled amounted to nearly 46,000,000 bushels. Indianapolis grain elevators have a combined capacity of 2,480,000 bushels.

An excellent grade of steam coal, yielding an average of 12.382 B.T.U. per pound, is obtained from the Indiana coal fields at an average haul of only 90 miles. The freight to Indianapolis on this coal is 90 cents a ton.

Indianapolis is the commercial center of an agricultural territory of great wealth. Within 100 miles of Indianapolis farm crops were produced in 1918 to the value of $350,000,000.00. Live stock within the same area was worth $275,000,000.00. Total farm property lying within 200 miles of Indianapolis amounts to at least $7,500,000,000.00.

It has 73 public schools and three public high school buildings, valued at $5,511,608.00. Thirty-three of these schools are equipped for manual training and domestic science.

There are 17 Catholic parochial grade schools, with an enrollment of 5,228 pupils and two academies for young women, and three Catholic high schools for boys. The enrollment for the academies and high schools is 265 pupils. Value of school buildings, about $600,000.00.

GOLD

Dollars or Stars!

Three men in a dugout.

Z—— Z———Z——! Bang———!

One man groaning in agony, asking someone for mercy's sake to kill him—writhing on the ground —legless.

One man crouching against the wall, the upper part of his head blown off, a grotesque jaw the only indication that a man's head had been on that body.

And a third—the writer.

* * *

Who stopped this slaughter?

You at home.

Germany saw that you were heart and soul in the struggle; that you were willing to make any sacrifice for victory; that your tremendous war preparations in men, equipment, munitions, ships and aeroplanes made Victory a certainty.

Now you have the chance of paying for that Victory with your dollars instead of your sons' blood—with gold dollars instead of gold service stars.

The man who passed through this experience will invest. Will you?

POSITIVE ACTION

When you are ready to take your business course, act positively, directly, definitely.

This school gives its whole time to the teaching of the business subjects. It is truly a "SCHOOL OF SPECIALIZATION." An active and intense business atmosphere pervades all departments.

As students become qualified for office positions, our FREE EMPLOYMENT DEPARTMENT is at their service. This department aims to keep in very close touch with business firms and their requirements.

This is one of the INDIANA BUSINESS COLLEGES—Chas. C. Cring, Pres., and Ora E. Butz, Gen. Mgr. The others are located at Marion, Muncie, Anderson, Lafayette, Richmond, Columbus, Logansport, Washington, Vincennes, Newcastle, Kokomo, Crawfordsville, and Peru.

You should see this school in operation. That is the only way you can get a correct idea of the work it is doing. But if you cannot call, be sure to write or telephone at once for "BUDGET OF INFORMATION." Phones Auto. 27-614 and Main 1686. Fred W. Case, Principal.

We do Anything Electrically

Bookwalter-Ball Printing Company

¶ There is no printing plant in Indiana with as complete an equipment and offering as complete a service as the Bookwalter-Ball Company.

¶ We are not "ordinary printers", primarily because ours is an extraordinary organization.

¶ There is no class of printing we do not handle well—and inexpensively.

¶ There is no phase of the graphic arts we are not equipped to handle, economically and artistically.

¶ We'll handle every detail of your printed matter, even co-operating with you on the lay-out and copy; preparing the art, supervising the making of the engravings; doing all the composition, the presswork, the binding, right in our own organization.
